

International transdisciplinary colloquium
TU Delft Faculty of Architecture and the Built Environment
Berlage Rooms (1&2) @ 09:00—17:30

Architectural Heritage: Affordances, Affect, Politics

October 18, 2019

Organized by

Aleksandar Staničić TU Delft

Andrea Jelić Aalborg University

This one-day international colloquium aims to bring forward transdisciplinary discussion on the links between (cultural) affordances, affective tonalities, shifting politics, collective memory, and the design of architectural heritage.

By entangling the perspectives of architecture, embodied and affective cognitive science, phenomenological philosophy, affective geography, and heritage and memory studies, the colloquium explores how architectural heritage and places of memory are produced, registered, and experienced.

The event is sponsored by the Marie Skłodowska-Curie Fellowship, hosted at TU Delft, Faculty of Architecture and the Built Environment, in collaboration with Aalborg University, Department of Architecture, Design and Media Technology, and International Ambiances Network with media support by the Academy of Neuroscience for Architecture (ANFA).

09:00 Opening Notes

09:30 Erik Rietveld University of Amsterdam/RAAAF
Hardcore Heritage

10:30 Lucia Allais Princeton University
Rethinking the Urban, circa 1948

11:30 Harry Mallgrave Illinois Institute of Technology
Habitat or Niche? The Affordance of a Dream of Paradise

14:00 Giovanna Colombetti University of Exeter
Architectural Spaces as Material Affective Scaffolds

15:00 Shanti Sumartojo Monash University
Thinking Memory Sites Atmospherically

16:30 Panel Discussion + Concluding Remarks

With invited respondents: Klaske Havik, Andrej Radman, Angeliki Sioli (TU Delft) and Tom Avermaete (ETH Zurich)